

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. #### INTRODUCTION.

This Conspectus of American Biography has been compiled to record in tabulated and easily accessible form the names and terms of office of the highest Officials in every department of American History and Society — the Government, the Law, the Church, the Arts and Sciences. A student of United States history desiring to learn for instance,

Who was U.S. Minister to France in 1848,

Who succeeded Jonathan Edwards as president of Princeton University,

Who were the delegates to the Second Colonial Congress,

Or to the several international monetary conferences,

Who were the contemporary authors and poets of the time of John Howard Paine,

Who were the candidates for the presidency when Andrew Jackson was elected,

Who were the U.S. senators from Connecticut when Oliver Wolcott was governor,

Who were the Roman Catholic bishops of the diocese of Louisville,

Who were the presidents of the American Library Association,

Who were the commanders of the frigate Constitution,

Who is the president of the National Academy of Science,

Who are the Ten American Painters,

What Americans received the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical Society,

Who constituted the American Company of the Revisers of the Bible,

Who were the presidents of Sorosis,

Who were the leaders of Tammany Hall or the Mayors of Boston or the editors of the "North American Review," etc., etc.

will search in as many different publications for this information, and in nearly every instance he will search in vain.

The idea of such a compilation grew out of the preparation of The National Cyclopedia of American Biography, when it was determined that all such official names of national standing should have a biography in a publication claiming to be national in its scope, and when it was discovered how few such records of names were available to the general public, and how wofully inaccurate and unreliable even these few records proved to be. The completeness and originality of these Lists and Statistics are the excuse for issuing them in a separate volume. In this busy age of specialization and systemization, the utility of the reference book is without question, and it is expected that this Conspectus will supply a long-needed want in the bibliography of American History and Biography.

The value of any book of reference is in proportion to its accuracy, and in A Conspectus of American Biography the same policy which has been followed with the biographical sketches themselves—that of submitting the final proofs to a competent authority for correction—has been applied; and even though the list of names was supplied originally by the institution or the organization itself, in every instance the secretary or other executive officer has been asked to verify the compilation when in type.

INTRODUCTION.

In making the selection of the Miscellancous Names, such as the Astronomers, Authors, Explorers, Inventors, Missionaries, Musicians, Philanthropists, Physicians, Sculptors, etc., the services of the most eminent authorities, in addition to the Advisory Editors, have been secured to make the Lists complete. As illustrating the carefulness with which this work has been done, the collection of prominent American economists may be cited. Prof. Richard T. Ely of the University of Wisconsin was employed to select the List. He called to his assistance the Economic Seminary of the University, and after duly considering the subject at several of its meetings, the following tests were applied to each individual selected: (1) Has he treated the general field, or what he considered the general field, of economic thought in a systematic way, bringing forth new truths or presenting in an original and helpful manner truth already established? (2) Is he generally recognized as having given, by writing or speaking, a distinct impulse to economic study, which has resulted or promised to result in definite progress? (3) Has he made a distinctly valuable and original contribution to economic theory in any branch of economic activity? (4) Has he, through the mastery and application of the highest economic philosophy of his time, aided in a significant manner in solving important public economic problems. Guided by the foregoing criteria, the within List was prepared and submitted to the Publishers. All the Lists of professional names were just as carefully compiled, and it detracts nothing from the value of this volume as a Conspectus of American Biography, that these names should constitute also, an Index of the National Cyclopedia of American Biography.

The additional compilations and tables are in the main entirely original and contribute to the completeness of the Conspectus. Some of the medal awards in the Roll of Honor in American History had never been compiled even by the Societies making the presentation, and the Publishers were obliged to search the Societies' records at their own expense for the information. The list of Americans who are mentioned in Literature, will prove a valuable contribution to the subject of American Biography, as will also the collection of Notable Sayings, and Last Words. The list of Public Statues in the United States will appeal to the Art World, giving as it does, the name of every Public Statue and Bust with its location and the name of the sculptor when known. A famous painting always carries the name of the artist in a corner, but very rarely can the sculptor's name be seen on a piece of statuary, and the guide books of our leading cities fail completely to supply that information even if they mention the statue. Public Statues was made during the years of preparation of the National Cyclopedia of American Biography and represents the results of three methods of compilation,—a personal canvass of the cities by the associate editors while employed in collecting material for that publication, a second canvass of every city in the United States by mail, and a compilation from the very full biographies of the sculptors themselves.

The Anniversary Calendar was prepared in 1903 and an edition of 50,000 copies was circulated through the educational world, with an offer of a prize for the discovery of any error in its dates; so that this collection of historical dates, besides being unique in its arrangement, is unquestionably more absolutely correct in its records than any previous collection. It is intended to present, day by day, the important events in United States history that have occurred on each day in the year, the object in view being a collection of Anniversaries, rather than a strictly chronological record. All previous compilations of dates have separated the events by years, so that to be able to find what transpired on January 1st, for instance, it was necessary to search for that date under every year for nearly three centuries. It will be found to be particularly useful for schools, not only in assisting the pupil's memory by the association of events, but also, in furnishing daily subjects for study, discussion and celebration appropriate to the occasion.

The list of American Ancestors and their Descendants will be of considerable value to students and inquirers in American Genealogy. It is the largest collection of our American forefathers that has ever been compiled.

The collection of "Character Lessons" included in this Conspectus is a systematic presentation of Examples taken from American Biography to illustrate the various traits of Character. It is a course in Character Teaching. Each trait of character is interpreted and elucidated; its Application is made to the Examples selected; reference is made to special poems and selections from general literature, emphasizing the particular trait, and a number of inspiring Excerpts and Quotations upon each subject have been added to be memorized by the pupils.

As the great demand today is for the teaching of Character in the public schools, it is believed that this System of Character Teaching by Example herein presented, will be found to be of great value to Public Schools and Educational Institutions, and will provide the best means of satisfying this imperative need. See Introduction to Character Lessons.

RULE TO FIND THE NUMBER OF ANY CONGRESS.

To determine the years covered by a given congress, double the number of the congress, and add the product to 1789; the result will be the year in which the congress closed. Take for example, the Thirty-fifth congress. Doubling it, gives us 70; add 1789, and we have 1859, the year in which, on March 4, the Thirty-fifth congress closed.

To find the number of a congress sitting in any given year, substract 1789 from the year. If the result is an even number, half that number will give the congress of which the year in question saw the close. If the result is an odd number, add one, and half the result will give the congress of which the year in question was the first year.

* The figures before the names of United States Senators indicate the class to which each belongs. Under Article 1, section 8, clause 2, of the Constitution of the United States, relating to the classification of senators in the first and succeeding congresses, it was provided that, "Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year." The classification of the senators of the first congress was made by lot in accordance with this provision. Any apparent discrepancy in this rule is to be explained by the fact of death, resignation, or removal.
